

March 25, 2020

Dear Valued Supplier,

As part of the Coronavirus Guidance for America, President Trump announced that those working in industries that are critical to our country's infrastructure, including chemicals, will continue normal operations at this time. Buckman plays an important role in supplying many customers that are also included on this critical list.

You are receiving this message because you are critical to our supply chain for some of the products we manufacture. It is our responsibility to ensure our suppliers are able to meet demand and continue to support us during this time. If you encounter any disruption, or foresee a disruption, that will impact your ability to supply Buckman, please immediately notify Buckman's representative identified below so we can adjust our production planning and communicate with our customers.

If you face a mandated government closure, you may share this letter with appropriate authorities to assist in obtaining an exemption.

As the COVID-19 crisis worsens, Buckman's Global Task Force is closely monitoring the potential adverse impact on the continuity of our supply chain. At this time, our manufacturing locations in North America are currently fully operational.

It's critical that should you anticipate that you will not be able to meet our supply needs during this time, please notify Susan Deloach immediately. Her contact information is provided below.

Susan Deloach
+19012726522 Office
swdeloach@buckman.com

We will diligently update the COVID-19 page on buckman.com with the latest information. Please check back for the most recent information and contact Buckman with any questions or concerns.

Thank you for your business.

Jim Doan
General Manager
Buckman North America

Mike Raday
General Manager, Operations
Buckman North America